Boeing Subsidiary CDG Forms Value-Added Reseller Relationship with Smead Software Solutions

CYPRESS, Calif., April 20, 2006 – Continental DataGraphics (CDG), a subsidiary of The Boeing Company [NYSE: BA], today announced that it has formed a value-added reseller relationship with Smead Software Solutions, a division of Smead Manufacturing Co. Smead is a leader in products, services and solutions for records and information management.

"Smead has a strong reputation, and product offerings that are complementary to CDG's information and document management service offerings," said Randy Gee, Director of Digital Document Solutions for CDG. "We are extremely pleased to be able to form this partnership, as it enables us to offer our customers a much broader range of solutions supporting records management with the addition of Smead products."

Jennie Olson, Marketing Manager for Smead Software Solutions commented, "We look forward to working closely with CDG in this new alliance relationship. Because of their high visibility across a diverse range of industry sectors, we felt they were a solid partner to help expand our offerings."

The newly formed VAR alliance relationship with Smead will enable CDG to offer Smeadlink® software to complement CDG's digital imaging and information management services. Smeadlink® integrates document management and bar-code tracking software to manage paper files, e-mail, reports, PC files, and images in a single, easy-to-use application. Records retention is automatically applied, ensuring records are managed in an accountable and trustworthy manner.

Based in Cypress, CA, CDG's Professional Services Group offers a highly skilled staff trained in software implementation and support. They are available to consult with customers to analyze requirements for document and records management, scanning services, software, systems integration and other services available as a part of CDG's Digital Document Solutions offerings.
